Iraq insists on navigable Gulf

UNITED NATIONS, Oct 5, (Agencies): Iraq's foreign minister said his latest peace talks with Iran "went well" but insisted the Shatt Al Arab waterway and Gulf must be. navigable if talks are to progress.

Tareq Aziz told delegates to the 43rd General Assembly yes-terday that Iran "accepted the (Security Council's peace proposal) resolution only because of a crushing military defeat and in the context of a struggle for power inside Iran."

These conditions, he said, made Baghdad suspicious of Iran's motives and question whether it sincerely wanted a lasting peace treaty with Iraq, or simply accept Security Council Resolution 598 to win a ceasefire in the face of impending defeat.

"This suspicious position on the part of the Iranian delegation was followed by its insistence on provisions which impose a de facto arms embargo on Iraq at said Aziz, referring to Iran's searches of neutral ships.

Aziz's speech was moved up at his request from its scheduled time on Friday to last evening so he could depart for Baghdad early. Aziz did not explain his early departure.

He met with Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar just before speaking to the General Assembly, and afterward told reporters: "We had a very constructive exchange of views about the course of the negotia-

Iraq insists the Shatt Al Arab waterway forming their southern border must be cleared of sunken ships and silt accumulated during the eight-year war.

But Aziz denied this was a precondition, calling such a description "a pure he and decep-tion." He said this demand was specified in letters to the Security Council throughout the proceedings that led up to the opening of the peace talks in Geneva on Aug 25.

Court removes last obstacle to Pakistani polls

ISLAMABAD, Oct 5, (AP): The Supreme Court of Pakistan today blocked a move to reconvene the National Assembly, dissolved last May by late President Mohammad Zia-ul-Haq, removing the last obstacle to planned democratic elections.

The unanimous ruling upheld a decision last week by a federal high court which found that Zia's heavy-handed move was unconstitutional. But it also found there were no grounds to put the old Muslim League government of Prime Minister Mohammed Khan Junejo back in power.

"We uphold the view expressed by the Lahore High Court that the grounds contained in the President's order ... has no nexus with the pre-conditions pres-cribed by the constitution empowering him to dissolve the National Assembly at his discretion," the court said in a statement.

Adherence

It said that although its find-ings would imply the old govern-ment stands revived, "we are not unmindful of the fact that the whole nation is geared up for elections and we do not propose to do anything which makes con-fusion... which would be the result if the vital process of election is interrupted at this junc-

It was the second time this week that Pakistan's highest court ruled against the late military strongman.

BAGHDAD, Oct 5, (Reuter): Iraq is developing a cluster missile with a longer range than any other weapon of its type, a senior Iraqi military officer said today. identified, was speaking to reporters at an exhibition in Baghdad where missiles, artillery and drones are on display to demonstrate Iraq's military might and attract foreign buyers. Iraq says all the weapons are of its own manufacture, including the 262-MM Ababil cluster missile used in the final stages of the eight-year war against Iran.

'Ababil is a surface-to-surface missile with a range of 50 km (35 miles) which explodes some 150 metres (500 feet) above the target and unleashes about 200 small bomblets," the officer said. He said the missile was being refined to achieve a range of 100

km (70 miles) which he said would give it the longest reach of any such projectile. He did not say where else in the world cluster missiles were in use, but the principle of a large projectile scattering smaller explosives has already been applied to bombs dropped from aircraft.

Don't hesitate to take bold step, uprising leaders tell PLO

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM, Oct 5, (Reuter): Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip are urging the PLO not to hesitate in launching a bold political initiative to help their uprising against Israeli rule.

As PLO leaders meet in Tunis this week to set a time and place for their parliament-in-exile to debate proclaiming a state and forming a provisional government, the message from the occupied territories is clear: "We are telling them very clearly but privately, "don't wait, don't delay until after the elections in Israel and the United States. ## Four dead, hundreds hurt in Soviet train crash

MOSCOW, Oct 5, (Reuter): The latest in a series of Soviet railway disasters has killed four people and left hundreds injured and homeless when a train loaded with explosives crashed in a station and blew up.

The huge blast yesterday at Sverdlovsk, a city just east of the Ural mountains, destroyed 20 buildings, ripped a crater in the ground 60 metres (yards) wide and sent clouds of choking black smoke across the city of 1.1 million, Soviet media said.

Human error was blamed for the accident, which brought the deathtoll in Soviet railway disaster to 123 since summer. Twenty-eight people died in a train wreck in August and 91 were killed in a June accident that also involved explosives.

In yesterday's accident, the walls of residential buildings collapsed and windows were shattered by the blast as terrified people ran into the streets, the government newspaper Izvestia

Moscow Radio quoted a. resident as saying a school and factory caught fire. "People rushed from their homes and did not recognise the streets: trees were down, electric poles were down, heaps of bricks blocked the road," Izvestia said.

Two hundred and seventy peo-ple were injured, with 87 of them in hospital, and 870 were left homeless when 12 residential buildings were destroyed, Soviet media said.

Izvestia said an error in the station switching yard caused the explosives train to crash into a coal train on another track. The dispatcher said to have given the order to release the brakes on the explosives train was in hospital with injuries.

It said Soviet and Afghan troops, often in reprisal attacks, killed dozens of unarmed civilians in Afghanistan. Unlawful killings by government forces also were reported in the Philippines. Indonesia, Sri Lanka and India, it said.

In the Philippines, security forces, paramilitary units under their command or governmentbacked vigilante groups killed more than 100 left-wing political activists and members of leftwing labour unions and peasant organisations, the report said.

In India, several thousand political detainees were held without charge or trial under anti-terrorist laws, and a government inquiry into the massacre of scores of unarmed Muslims produced no results.

In Sri Lanka, reports contin-ued of arbitrary killings of Tamil civilians, often in reprisal for attacks by armed Tamil groups fighting for a separate state, Amnesty International said.

Between 1983 and 1987, more than 680 Tamils had disappeared, most of whom were leared shot or tortured to death by security forces, the group said.

In South Korea, it is unlawful to give information to foreigners deemed to "insult or slander the state," it said.

The directive from Sheikh Saad came during his address in the opening session of the Council on Sept 21. Fair and clear criteria should be established for granting permanent residence to those who can benefit and serve Kuwait. Sheikh Saad said.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Planning has forwarded to Council members the findings of a study on the issue of permanent residence. The next meeting of the Council is scheduled for Oct celebrated Arab Child Day from Monday to Thursday.

He said that 3,500 children die every year because of disease and poor medical services. In remote areas, millions of children cannot go to school, he said, adding that many children in Lebanon are deprived of basic necessities and live under threat of war.

"The failure to solve children's problems in Arab countries is due to their economic conditions," he said.

Dependence

Al Sarraf urged the Arab world to exert more efforts to provide proper care for children. Children in the Arab world also lack the cultural care, which is important to bring them up to the same level of children in developed countries, he added. Al Sarraf criticised the growing dependence on baby-sitters and deterioration of a mother's direct role in taking care of their children. He said that parents should make a determined effort to cultivate education and social awareness in their children.

KUWAIT'S Communication Ministry has announced off-peak overseas phone charges, which will go into effect from Nov 1.

The announcement was made after Minister of Communications, Abdullah Abdul Mohsen Al Sharhan on Monday approved a decision to bring down charges during off-peak hours, from 7 pm to 7 am, and during holidays.

Contrary to earlier reports the rates have not been halved except for calls to the US. The charges for United States calls, which are KD 1.100 per minute have been halved to 550 fils during peak and 450 fils during off-peak hours.

For other countries the maximum decrease is 150 fils and the minimum, 50 fils on current rates, which will be applicable during peak hours. Reductions are between 8 per cent and 30 per cent.

Overseas calls to such sectors as UK, India. Pakistan, Bangladesh and Thailand, among others, will cost 50 fils less per minute during off-peak hours. The charges for Singapore, China, Sri Lanka, South Korea, among others. will be 100 fils lower per minute at night.

GCC states

Telephone charges for GCC countries will fall by 90 fils per minute during off-peak hours; calls to such countries as Burma, Morocco and Zimbabwe, to name a few will be reduced by 150 fils per minute. Officials had said earlier that overseas call charges would be reduced from Oct 1, but implementation was delayed due to further studies by the ministry. Overseas call charges in Kuwait are said to be

Irish mother to be charged in kidnapping

ABU DHABI, Oct 5, (AP): An Irish nurse will be charged with kidnapping her 5-year-old daughter from the girl's Arab father. The mother will join two Irishmen scheduled to go on trial this month on a similar charge. Prosecutor Mohammed Al Iraqi Iraqi, public prosecutor in the United Arab Emirates port of Khor Fakkan where the trial will take place, identified the mother as Ann McManus, 28, who works as a nurse in Dublin.

He said the charges will be filed through the Irish Embassy in Saudi Arabia because there is no Irish Embassy in the UAE capital of Abu Dhabi, 120 miles (192 kilometres) southwest of Khor Fakkan.

Iraqi alleged that McManus, who is divorced from Jordanian surgeon Samir Naseer, provided Dennis Deney, 28 and Gerald Flynn, 25, with information and assistance to kidnap her daughter, Nadine.

McManus had been awarded custody of the child by an Irish court after the divorce. But when the girl joined her father for a holiday. Naseer filed suit in Jordan and won custody.

The two Irishmen are scheduled to go on trial on Oct 31 in Khor Fakkan's criminal Deney and Flynn, both from Dublin, were arrested by police in the Emirate of Sharjah on Sept 4, a half-hour after they allegedly kidnapped Nadine.

The two men and the girl were on their way to the airport in Sharjah, one of the seven emirates that make up the federation, to catch a plane for Amsterdam en route to Ireland, officials

Khor Fakkan police sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the kidnapping was planned two months before when the two men were given a detailed layout of Naseer's home by the girl's mother.

Something fishy!

NOT to be outdone by the likes of Frank Sinatra and Gary Glitter, whose comebacks occasion reactions ranging from sheer delight to unmitigated horror, Dinah is back. Admittedly, I am not quite what I was (make of that what you will), but I can assure you that the Table Talk recipe remains unchanged. You will be presented with the same blend of mouthwatering descriptions and healthy criticism, seasoned with the occasional tart comment and garnished with a sprinkling of humour. So, I wish you 'bon appetit' and now let's get down to business. Currently vying for popularity as a seafood restaurant. the recently reopened Le Versailles at the Meridien has got off to a reasonable start, though, in some areas, there is clearly room for improvement. The somewhat heavy, blue and white colour scheme may, at a pinch, be suggestive of ocean depths, but I felt that it was perhaps more in keeping with the style of place hinted at in the restaurant's name. It does rather seem that, in terms of decor, much has been included, or perhaps I should say added. by way of an afterthought: upon the sudden realisation of the need for 'something' to give the place a maritime feel. I am pretty sure, however, that disconcerting as you tuck in to big brother! It would hardly be fair to comment at any great length on atmosphere, since we did arrive quite late on a Monday evening and thus had the place to ourselves for much of the time. Nevertheless, I do think we could have been spared the misery of piped John Denver, even if we were the only ones there. Despite being marooned with our fishy friends, we received polite, attentive service throughout the meal, though the waiter occasionally had difficulty navigating his way around our table, not helped by vards of wire flex trailing across the floor connecting our shell table-lamp to the electricity supply. The range of dishes on offer is quite comprehensive, being a reasonably well-balan-coal grilling, with the result that there was a burnt tang which tended to spoil the subtle flavour of the salmon. I tried a little of the Dutch Veal Paillard, my guest's choice, and would suggest that this meat dish was altogether more successful. which is hardly good news for a seafood restaurant. I chose Oriental rice as an accompaniment to my main course, but failed to discover exactly what was 'Oriental' about it, except perhaps that it was of the basmati variety.

The dessert trolley was rather limited in the range of choices, but full marks go to the excellent Mango Mousse. Light, fluffy mousse with an exquisite mango topping on an unobtrusive sponge base was, for me, the highlight of the

We rounded off the meal with some superb American coffee, although we could, of course, have taken Cappuccino, Turkish or espresso.

Average

On the whole, the evening was pleasant but undeniably average. I tend to feel that, though obviously Le Versailles can provide one with a perfectly respectable meal, it has perhaps fallen a little short of its target and does not present any kind of serious opposition to established seafood places.

Talking of established places, one of course has to make more than a passing reference to Al Dana seafood restaurant. Widely acclaimed as the foremost of its kind in Kuwait, Al Dana certainly lives up to its reputation in most respects, though even here, there were disappointments. The dining room has a warm and inviting feel to it with its . ATMOSPHERE: ** subdued lighting, dark wood (a). lt might have been something to do with chemistry, but our waiter seemed to take a certain dislike to us and gave a curt response to one of my enquiries as well as handling my guest's cutlery change in what seemed to us to be a deliberately heavy-handed manner. On the other hand, the maitre d'hotel was almost too accommodating, which led us to think that he perhaps suspected that something 'fishy' was going on!

I suppose it was my fault for not being more adventurous in my choice of appetiser, but the Shrimp Cocktail Amora was, as ever, pretty uninspiring. I would have thought someone could have come up with a different way of presenting it by now, and I guess I was looking to a place like Al Dana to do just that.

Fantasy My choice of main meal was influenced by a desire to relieve the romance of a visit to Spain. but my fantasy was promptly shattered by the Paella Espan-ole. I did think the inclusion of meat was a bit odd, but I was prepared to give it a whirl. What we got (it is prepared for two), was a most disappointing concoction of stringy, grisly meat, dry mussels and prawns in stodgy rice. It may well have been based on a Spanish regional variation, but to my mind they overdid the tomato and there was not a speck of saffron to be seen. I do not know what they would have included if I had opted for a meatless version, but certainly the seafood was difficult to

We finished up with Strawberry Cream Cake, which was perfectly executed in itself, but sat a little heavily on the paella. All in all, it proved to be a very mixed experience, but not one that would deter me from going again.

Lebanese kidnappers free a hostage

Syria sends strong signal to US

By Peter Smerdon

BEIRUT, (Reuter): In supervising the latest hostage release in Beirut, Syria has sent a strong signal to the United States to heed its influence in Lebanon, diplomatic and security sources said on Tuesday.

Yet the release on Monday of Indian academic Mithileshwar Singh - rather than one of three American colleagues held with him - showed Syria's writ did not extend into the kidnappers' hideouts.

Damascus could not dictate which hostage was to be freed.

Singh ultimately owes his freedom to the kidnappers pick-ing him out from the other hostages," said a diplomatic source.

"They kept the three Americans for the leaner times to come."

Ironically, analysts said, it was precisely because the hostage issue was winding down that kidnappers were determined to make all the political capital they could from any release.

Alliances

"The hostage problem in Lebanon is winding down slowly," said one diplomat. "But while this happens alliances change and those holding foreigners sometimes will need to assert their declining independence." Syria has some 25,000 troops in Lebanon and the Indian hostage's release follows intense efforts by Washington and Damascus to find ways to prevent the country from being formally partitioned after 13 years of civil war.

Twenty-one foreigners, including 10 Americans, are now missing, believed kidnapped in Diplomats said Syrian officials were privately embarrassed when they discovered the Indian had been released on Monday night after they promised Washington one of the three Americans.

After 20 months in captivity, Singh, who has permanent US residence status, was handed on Tuesday in Damascus to the US ambassador with Indian diplomats relegated to a minor

"The Syrians were red-faced because they were wrong," said another diplomatic source. "The Americans took Singh, but would have preferred one of their

Goodwill

The group that grabbed Singh and three colleagues in 1987, Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine (IJLP), said two days before Singh was set free in Syrian-controlled west Beirut that it would release a hostage as a goodwill gesture.

The group suddenly switched its demands last month from the release of 400 Arab prisoners held in Israel to American recognition of Palestinian rights.

"I have good news for you and the American people," Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Al Sharra told an impromptu news conference at the United Nations in New York on Monday. "One of the American hostages will be released one hour from now."

US television networks, quoting US officials, said the White House expected the release of American Alann Steen. The sources said the US embassy in Damascus told the State Department on Monday Syria had promised an American, probably Steen, would be freed.

Diplomats discounted Lebanese political sources who said Singh was deliberately released instead of an American in an attempt to pressure Washington to help solve Lebanon's crisis the way Syria wanted.

But the message on Syria's role in Lebanon was clear.

"Shara would not announce at the United Nations that an American was coming out if Damascus knew it was an Indian with a green card (residence permit)," said a diplomat.

They were very surprised. Lebanon has had two rival governments vying for power and no head of state since President Amin Gemavel ended his term on Sept 23 without a

Gorbachev still faces opposition

By Bryan Brumley

WASHINGTON, (AP): Mikhail Gorbachev won a small, painful victory in the game of musical chairs in the Kremlin, but he failed to unseat some outspoken critics of his most radical

Gorbachev's most visible success was taking the place of Andrei Gromyko as Soviet president, combining that office with the more powerful post of general-secretary of the Communist Party, as did his three

And he brought some new, possibly friendlier, faces into the ruling politburo.

But "it is still not Gorbachev's politburo," Stephen Cohen, head of Soviet studies at Princeton University, said Monday. "I don't see this as a decisive consolidation of power on the part of Gorbachev, "Cohen said. As long as he is a reform leader. there is never going to be decisive consolidation. Every reform generates new opposition."

Peter Reddaway, who heads the Kennan Institute for Advanced Russian Studies in Washington, predicted that "in the next year or two Gorbachev is likely to come under increasing political pressure."

Compromises Gorbachev bought some time, said Cohen, by orchestrating "a fairly complex set of compromises by different groups on where the reforms ought to go." "Gorbachev made some significant gains on balance, but he had to pay a price to people who do not share his views." Cohen For the time being, the shuffle at the top has not visibly reduced the power of the two politburo members who have most vocally differed with the reform movement, Yegor Ligachev and Viktor Chebrikov.

In fact, it gave them authority over two of the most important areas of reform, leaving Ligachev in charge of reforming agriculture and Chebrikov in charge of reforming the legal sys-

An extraordinary party conference this summer endorsed the partial decollectivization of agriculture by leasing state-owned land to farmers. And the conference also called for what could be sweeping changes in the legal system, ensuring protection of individual rights, a shift in power from the party to parliamentary bodies and greater accountability for all those holding public office. Control Putting. Ligachev and Chebrikov in control of those reforms was intended, said Cohen, "to assure the moderates that the most radical reforms are in the hands of the least radical reformers.

Chebrikov did relinquish his job as head of the KGB security police, but he took a much more powerful post, party secretary. When Yuri Andropov made the same move in May 1982, he became the front-runner to succeed the ailing Leonid Brezhnev, which he did on Brezhnev's death seven months later.

Ligachev's new status is less clear. He had been the No.2 man in the Kremlin, by his own account running the day-to-day affairs of the party secretariat.

Giving Ligachev the agricultural portfolio does not remove his hand from control of the party secretariat.

And it puts him in charge of food production, a sector which can make or break Gorbachev.

Success "Gorbachev's success will rest on the degree to which he can carry out the reforms," which up till now have been hampered by conservatives and bureaucrats, Cohen said. And the reforms have not generated much popular support because, in part, they have not put more food on the tables of Soviet consumers.

Female doctors should check women

SIR: I endorse the view expressed in the letters "Ladies stripped", (AT, Sept 15-16).

It reminds me of my colleague who related his incident of the skin test. When he was called in to the room he was unaware of the kind of test he was to be subjected to. My colleague was asked to strip. He was to keep his clothes on the stool at the end of the room and walk up to the doctor's chair. I wo women were also present. He thought their presence unnecessary as well as embarrassing and told the doc-tor so. To the annoyance and irritation of one of the females. they were asked to step out. He recalled that prior to his entering the room a Sri Lankan lady had been called in. He heard raised voices but could not follow what it was about. When finally the woman step-ped out, she looked flushed and had her head bowed low.

He later thought that perhaps women were asked to take off their clothes for examination by a female doctor and the woman's protest was due to the male doctor's presence in the same room; although he could not observe her. The protest even under those circumstances was perfectly justified.

Kuwait strictly adheres to the Quranic injunctions and expects the same out of their citizens as well as expatriates, (Muslims and non-Muslims). The skin test of women by a male doctor and the way it is conducted is against all norms of decency and religion and must be stopped forthwith. A lady doctor. I am sure, can be engaged for the purpose.

A citizen, (Name and address supplied).

Tiwari's interview

my grievances.

SIR: An interview with the Indian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs K.K. Tiwari (AT, Sept 9) appeared to be an anti-Pakistan drive. About 80 per cent of the interview was related to the Indo-Pak ties and India's stance against Pakistan.

Tiwari criticised Pakistan's nuclear programme. Pakistan has repeatedly explained that the programme was aimed at peaceful uses of nuclear energy. Pakistan never said it would produce a nuclear bomb. Ironically, he did not rule out the possibility of joining the nuclear arms race on the pretext of a "threat to the security of India."

Tiwari, repeating India's stance on the Punjab problem said that it has concrete evidence of Pakistan's involvement, but he did not reveal the proof.

The Indian minister also indirectly accused Pakistan of interfering in the internal affairs of Afghanistan.

The interview did not cover the major Arab problem, the Palestinian issue and the current uprising in occupied territories. It is worth mentioning that India recognises Israel and maintains diplomatic ties at consular level with the Zionist entity. India maintains trade ties with Israel. Last June the Israeli Boycott Office in Kuwait blacklisted 23 Indian companies because of their links with Israel.

A majority of them said that the new Maths teacher was not at all good. He gave severe imposition for not answering questions and often beat them I think the school principal made a big mistake by appointing them.

Foreign campaign experts invade Latin America

By Carrie Flgdor

CARACAS, Venezuela, (AP): US political consultant David Garth came to Venezuela in 1978 to help presidential candidate Luis Herrera Campins. His first suggestion was that the famously fat politician lose weight. Herrera, a Social Christian who lelt his girth was an integral part of his popular image, rejected Garth's advice.

"When you're campaigning, Venezuelans will always ofter you food and drink," the stillcorpulent Herrera recalled recently. "The the only way you can refuse without losing a vote is to say, somewhat mysteriously, that you're taking pills, and they'll think you have a venereal disease or something.

Garth lost the battle to slim down his candidate. He chose instead to capitalise on Herrera's communications skills in eight memorable commercials, filmed outdoors, featuring the candidate speaking with disgruntled citizens.

Defeat

The spots galvanised the cam-paign and helped Herrera defeat the Social Democratic Party in a race that was crucial in forging Venezuela's democracy into a two-party system.

Besides Garth, other high-powered US pollsters, media specialsits and general advisers who have worked in the region include Joseph Napolitan, David Sawyer, Matthew Reese, Robert Squier and Sergio Bendixen. Either individually or as teams, they helped the winning presidential campaigns of Carlos Andres Perez, Luis Herrera Campins and Jaime Lusinchi in Venezuela; Oscar Arias Sanchez in Costa Rica: Nicolas Ardito Barletta in Pnama: Alan Garcia in Peru and others

Latin American politicans and US consultants say the advisers are most valuable for bringing an outsider's perspective on the candidate and on what voters want. They also provide techniques to link the candidate to the voter's

Candidates ignore the advice of their hired guns from the north at their own peril.

Herrera was correct in dispensing with Garth's recommendation to slim down. In Latin America, unlike in the United States, overweight is not felt to reflect a personality flaw. But in the 1987 presidential nomination race in Venezuela, Social Democratic hopeful Octavio Lepage ignored his consultant's advice to stay in his key government post, rather than quit to campaign in the streets.

Lepage, a dry party-line politician with no popular appeal, lost the nomination to Carlos Andres Perez, a charismatic former president who has no trouble gathering large and noisy crowds. Stronger

But the US consultants must also adapt. In Latin America, as in Europe, political parties are much stronger than they are in the United States, and party loyalty is the norm. US consultants' advice can get lost in the shuffle as party leaders struggle for influence in the campaign, which is seen as collective rather than an individual bid. Latin American candidates, who are almost always men, United States, is still a powerful technique. Latin Americans have resisted using direct mail or telephone campaign operations, mainly because these public services are typically inefficient.

Even so, campaigns have increasingly resembled US contests, with a variety of imported techniques.

Mapping out a strategy, choosing one or two short messages that are repeated as long as they are effective, polling to obtain reliable information and relying more heavily on television are among the principles that have filtered south.

Tehran trying to acquire advanced weapons

By Ed Blanche

NICOSIA, Cyprus, (AP): Iran is reorganizing its military for-ces and seeking advanced weapons following the defeats in the war with Iraq that brought it to accept a United Nations-sponsored ceasefire.

"The reconstruction of the armed forces has a very high priority" in Iran's overall postwar reconstruction pro-gramme, Defence Minister Brig. Gen. Mohammad Hussein Jalali said last week. "The Army and the Revolutionary Guards Corps must definitely be strengthened," he said in an interview with Tehran's Kayhan daily. "This does not mean reinforcement for an offensive, but rather the prevention of probable aggression and for Asked if he thought Iran's unconditional acceptance of the UN Security Council's ceasefire resolution would ease the US led arms embargo that caused major problems during the 8-year war, Jalali replied:

"But there have been some signs. The world has now realized that Iran's cause has been genuine ....

"Of course, powers which are opposed to us are not going to supply us with advanced weapons. But we see it as our duty to acquire them and we're getting more hopeful by the day."

He did not elaborate. Diplomatic sources have said the Iranians are badly short of combat aircraft, tanks, radar and other sophisticated weaponry.

WARSAW, (Reuter): A Communist Party document describing the systematic brutality of Poland's Soviet-linked security police in Stalinist times has appeared in the official press after being kept secret for more

Unlike recent accounts of Stalinist repressions in the Soviet Union which have appeared in the Soviet press and shocked many Russians with their frankness, the Polish document may cause little sensation in Poland. From underground publications, Western reports and, in many cases, personal experience, most Poles are already familiar with the crimes of their communist rulers in the decade after Soviet dictator Josef Stalin installed them in power in 1944.

But the publication of the document in the party weekly Polityka marks a step forward in official recognition of the ruthless manner in which Soviet influence was exercised in Poland up to Stalin's death in March 1953.

Trials

The document, presented in secret to the party's Central Committee in May 1957, says, for example, that 19 Polish Army officers were executed after fraudulent trials organised by Soviet agents operating in Poland's Army intelligence.

The document, prepared by a special party investigating team known as the Nowak Commission, describes how Poland's secret police forces created a special "10th Department" in 1949 whose officers tortured their victims close to madness.

"The investigations of the 10th Department involved an entire system of torments, humiliating for human dignity and causing complete exhaustion and a state close to madness in a suspect." the document says.

Iran re-organising its, military forces

The Iraqis claim they captured much of Iran's operational armour in a series of offensives between April and August that retook all the territory the Iranians had seized in the previous six years.

The speed with which the Iranians were driven back surprised even the Iraqis. Iranian resistance, mainly by the Revolutionary Guards. appeared to collapse rapidly as the Iraqis regained the offensive after years of static defense. The 350,000-strong Revolutionary Guards, Iran's sometimes-reckless force of Islamic militants, bore the brunt of the fighting and took appalling casualties in humanwave offensives. The Iranians' abrupt acceptance of UN resolution 598, the basis for the Aug 20 ceasefire, stunned many Iranians, including the military, said business-men who were in Tehran at the time.

"Several of the young men in my family were at the front and they couldn't believe it," said one Iranian, in Nicosia to attend a seminar. "The knew things weren't going well, but they were absolutely speechless. They couldn't understand how it all caved in so fast. Some were relieved that the dying was over. But some were extremely bitter." Recently, President Ali Khamenei and other key leaders have been touring the battlefront trying to raise morale. There have been indications that the Revolutionary Guards, known as

The corps was originally formed as a paramilitary force to safeguard the Islamic Revolution. But it was thrust into a military and eventually eclipsed the regular Army, which had been built up by the Shah and was distrusted by the hierarchy. Iran's parliament last month dismissed Mohsen Rafiqdoust, the government minister in charge of the corps. He was replaced by Ali Shamkahani. 33, deputy commander of the corps' ground forces.

But Iranian leaders have publicly defended the Pasdaran. Ayatollah Khomeini told corps commanders at a military seminar last month: "You are my closest and dearest aides." A unified military command set up by Rafsanjani, named acting commander-in-chief by Khomeini last June in a bid to reverse Iran's battlefield, defeats, has been reshaping the which Stalin's security police chief Lavrenti Beria, instigated the repression in Poland, and to what extent the Polish police operated on their own.

But Polityka says so many Stalinists remained in the Polish leadership that when Gomulka became party chief in 1956 on a wave of popular hopes for freedom he had to keep in check. the demands for an anti-Stalinist purge. "Gomulka wanted to keep the Jailed Gomulka, who had been jailed from 1951-54 at the height of Polish Stalinism, lost popular Support as he tightened his rule in the 1960s. He was toppled in dozens of rioting workers in Poland's Baltic cities. The rise of the independent Solidarity Trade Union in 1980s prompted a new surge of destalinisation in Poland as film directors and writers, bursting free from official constraints, produced works on the late 1940s

1970 after security forces killed and early 1950s. The suppression of Solidarity under martial law in 1981 halted the process temporarily. But in April 1987, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and Polish leader Wojciech Jaruzelski vowed there must be no "black spots" in Soviet-Polish history.

The publication of the Nowak

Commission's report does not mean, however, that all "blanks spots" have been cleared up.

A spate of tame films from 'anti-establishment' directors

Where have all the firebrands gone?

A SAD feature of the current indian film scene is the disappearance of many film makers who entered the business with a lot of pep and revolutionary spirit

They have gradually simmered down and disappointed cinegoers with a spate of tame films. As one wag has rightly pointed out, 'these directors are "anti-establishment" till they are established. Using art, protest films and new faces as a launching pad, they eventually settle down with costly formula films with the same old stars. This has happened to many directors making people won-der about their defection. The latest example is N. Chandra who had initially made a big impact with Anknsh. it was the anger and excitement of the film that appeared so resh and sincere. People liked the sympathetic portrayal of four roadside ruffians, their gang wars and what made their world so bitter. The rough edges and the slang talk also impressed cinegoers.

After that, Chandra was asked to direct Pratighaat for some big producers. This small film, too, with new actors became a runaway hit. Thereafter Chandra turned his attention to the crore-rupee category films and the big stars of the industry. The result is Tezaab, previ-ewed recently, which has all the ingredients of fights and romance, but not the spirit and strength to make it ring true. The title means acid but the film maker's acidic approach to social evils and stinging comment on problems are totally pose was to show-case the stars. Anil Kapoor is the typical Munna "dada" who is in and out of jail, chased by some cops and helped by others. And Madhuri is the typical damsel perpetually in distress. A parallel pair is made up of Chunkey and Suparna.

It is surprising that he chose such putrid script material,

Mandakini appears in a special role and there is the triangular rug of love between Anil and the two girls. To make Madhuri jealous, Anil flirts with Manda leading to a predictable show-down. The hero performs absurd stunts like a drowning attempt and a fall from a great height. These sulking gestures, and tit-for-tait tricks take up a lot of footage, while the kidnapping of the girls and rape attempts supply the titillation. There is even the old turnip of crooning &: favourite song to recover the lost heroine and the use of flash-backs is shabby to say the Madhuri's wicked father Anupam Kher, with hired 'goondas' led by Kiran Kumar (bearing a strange underworld name of Lotia) provide the villainy. There are fights galore on every pretext, the saving grace being that the film shows some reality by shooting on actual locales.

The noble angle of friendship comes with Chunkey staking his life for his hero friend. The main villain is finished in the long climax and we are told that the hero has at last exhausted all the "acid" within him. We feel that if N. Chandra keeps going the same way, he will end up without any spirit left. His next films are the multi-star Humlas and Yugandhar.

But we cannot blame Chandra of glamorous Bombay Chunky Pandey in N. Chandra's Tezaab. The title might mean acid, but the film-maker's acidic approach to social evils and stinging comment on problems are totally absent.

The ageing Mrinal himself it seems is getting stuck in past grooves, instead of grappling with contemporary problems. Such a film is also easier to shoot for him than a realistic one on the city's locations.

Mellowed

Sailing in the same boat is another old firebrand B. R. Ishara, who once set Bombay aflame with Chetna and Zaroorat. He had a special knack on themes about women and why they are compelled to follow the flesh trade. He made a series of films, not all that successful, but with a lot of vigour which turn novices like Rehana Sultan, Parveen Babi, Reena Roy etc into stars. His questioning attitude to society was his finest point.

But now Ishara is a much mellowed man. Of course in his case, it was not the pursuit of wealth but the financial disasters of his many films, made in a quick slipshod way. Films recently completely by him are Woh Phir Ayegi and Doosra Roop and he is also directing Police Ke Peechey Police for

The film world is a strange world, indeed.

Poor Sonam nas become notorious for her heavy voice. As soon as she opens her mouth on the screen, people start laughing. The joke going round industry circles is that ever since producers found her unfit to speak, her uncle Raza Murad offered to dub for her without charging a fee. If Sonam can wear her aunt's dresses, she can be her uncle's voice as well!

Salma Agha is not busy as a heroine and Padmini Kapila who gave up acting is plodding along as a producer. Yet, both have bought costly houses for themselves in posh areas of Bombay's suburbs. Shall we add: never ask a woman where her income comes from?

Amitabh has taken many films on hand as never before. People are surprised. They say it is his basic sense of insecurity. Age is already showing on his face and his health permits only five hours of work every day. This is perhaps his last round in filmdom, at least as a top highly-paid hero.

QUESTION: I am aware that bacteria and other types of germs cause serious infections in humans. However, my daughter reports that her teacher said those little amoeba she looks at under the microscope also can infect people. Do amoeba really cause disease?

ANSWER: Your daughter's school teacher is absolutely correct, amoeba can cause disease and infection.

Amebiasis is the name of the disease caused by amoeba. It comes from a onecelled parasite Entamoeba histolytica, which can be carried without symptoms, but usually results in symptoms ranging from mild diarrhea to dysentery. It is found throughout the world but traditionally and most frequently in countries or areas that have poor sanitation.

It is found so frequently in the tropics that amebiasis has come to be considered a tropical disease. But such is not the case as it can occur wherever water supplies are contaminated.

In certain places, plumbing problems can contaminate water that otherwise would be pure. That situation most often happens in seasonal establishments such as parks, lodges or resorts.

Anyone travelling to developing countries must take safety measures to guard against amebiasis. Among them are drinking only boiled or bottled water, never brushing your teeth with water from the tap, avoiding ice cubes that could have been made with unsafe water and eating only thoroughly cooked food.

I HAVE only ever met one person who could fold a fitted sheet the way its designers intended. My sister Marilyn can look a drip-dry polyester/ cotton sheet right in its little elastic gathers and with a few deft twists and turns of the wrist, like a soldier folding a flag at a military funeral, produce a neat, rectangular package that would fit back into the original plastic bag.

Can you imagine what a woman like this could do if she were to become Prime Minister? No doubt Margaret Thatcher's linen cupboard is full of precise piles of percale.

Mine, on the other hand, is full of irregularly-shaped lumps. (Don't tell me I've left the baby in there again!) I do try. I get these tent-like things off the line or out of the tumble dryer, stand in a clear spot on the floor and make a number of large, folding motions and I don't do too badly with the middle of the sheet.

But I'm always left with four corners that won't co-operate, so I bunch it all up and squash it on a shelf and wonder at the march of science that has brought us the space shuttle, floppy discs, heart transplants, pre-moistened baby wipes and un-foldable sheets.

Daily life is now full of socalled convenience products, making things harder for us by the minute.

I fully expect to be found, one morning, writhing on the kit-chen floor, enveloped in metres and metres of cling film, still clutching the Vegemite sandwich I was trying to pack.

Cling film clings .... it clings to itself, to human beings, hot toasters, teapots, dogs, toast crumbs, small children, coffee cups and globs of peanut butter and honey. The only consolation is that you will probably need only on sandwich per person per week because it takes so long to find the fiddly corner bit to unwrap it...

Then there is that bit of precision engineering called the toasters. Ours gives you a choice of settings from barely warm to burnt black and is cleverly constructed to allow thin pieces of bread (usually ends of loaves) to fall through and then wedge firmly between the wire base and side wall.

Clouds of black smoke and soft curses fill the morning air as we try to prise the bread out. spend two or three years of your life.

At the last instruction booklet stuck to the dog who was sixth or seventh down the line and once we had glued some dog biscuits to his muzzle we discovered we only needed nail polish remover to dissolve the awful situation.

Twenty-three of us struggled to the bathroom cabinet, people stood in the shower and the bath while I rummaged along shelves, gluing myself to the dental floss, three hairpins, two elastic bands, countless safety pins, bits of cotton wool, mouthwash, combs and a letter from my mother which brought tears to my eyes.

Four hours later we had all gone our separate ways. Some to bed and one or two to the bottle.

Can this be progress? At least you knew where you stood with the old paste pot and brush ...

Which is the more skillful game, bridge or chess? Great argument has raged for many a year, but you know where our bet lies. We need only cite this historical reference. About 150 years ago, a Frenchman named Guillaume le Breton Deschapelles was regarded as both the best chess player and whist player of his day. He remarked that, within a few days of learning chess, he was able to defeat the reigning world champion, and that thereafter he never found anything new to learn about the game. Whist, however, always presented new challenges, and he felt he would never completely mas-

The winning defense is the Deschapelles Coup. East must switch to the king of hearts at the second trick, and declarer has no counter. Whether or not he wins immediately. West has an entry and the defense will take seven tricks before declarer can utilize his clubs.

AS soon as word got around that the Brady Amendment on gun control had been defeated, everyone at the Wounded Knee Bar and Grill began to celebrate. The drinks flowed and customers took turns shooting out the stained-glass windows.

"Congratulations," I told Crazy Jesse, a Saturday night special gun lover. "If the Brady Amendment had passed, a person would have had to wait seven days before he could get delivery on a weapon. Your people know how to give Americans instant gratification."

"We couldn't have done it without Congress." Craze Jesse admitted modestly.

"How did you get Congress to go along?" "We paid them," he replied. "We have this fund that we spread around when it looks as if someone is going to try and make you wait a week for a gun. Congress is pretty hungry for money during an election year."

I guess the police chiefs who wanted the Brady Amendment are very to defeat it."

"The police don't know anything about firearms. All they are trying to do is prevent themselves from being killed. If they had their way, no one could buy a handgun in America." "The fools," I spat out.

"Handguns are the very things that are keeping us from becoming savages.

"You'd have to go back to before 1984 to find a year with such poor across-the-board performance," says John Lipsky, a director of international bondmarket research at Salomon.

The returns are measured in US dollars and include price, income and currency changes for bonds with remaining maturities of at least one year.

Even some of the savviest money managers in the global bond market took their lumps in the first nine months. "This isn't a market you should be messing around in if you don't know what's going on," says Denis Karnosky, a managing director and head of asset allocation at First Chicago Investment Ad-

Even so, the firm's $15 billion global bond fund has a negative 3.9 per cent total return from January through August. (September's figures aren't available yet). "Obviously the performance hasn't been there," says

Windheim of Prudential says his global bond fund returned only 2 per cent for the eight months ended August 31 -- "a miserable showing after we earned double-digit annual returns of as much as 40 per cent over the past three years. I'm now sitting on the fence — underweighted in bonds across the world on the expectation that interest rates will move higher." Even money managers who attempted to hedge the risk of a strengthening dollar wound up with little to show for their seemingly clever manoeuvrings. First Chicago, for instance, used sophisticated options strategies to help prevent the value of its non-dollar bonds from eroding.

"We started hedging the currency component of our non-dollar bonds in February because we figured the dollar would either be stable or rebound significantly," says Karnosky, whose global bond funds still are struggling to provide positive returns.

Successful In hindsight, many managers say, balancing bond investments with a variety of short-term deposits would have proved more successful during the year's first nine months. That's because short-term interest almost everywhere rose faster than long-term

In the US, for example, the rate on three-month Eurodollar deposits rose to 8.56 per cent at the end of the third quarter from 7.31 per cent at the end of 1987. Rates on Euromark deposits climbed to 5.06 per cent from 3.31 per cent during the same period.

While Lipsky of Salomon says the rise in US rates isn't over suggesting that both the dollar and long-term rates could rise further — "next year could turn out to be more favourable for bond-market performance.

Despite paltry or negative returns from most sectors of the bond market the past nine months, an investor who bought a basket of major government bonds 12 months ago and sold them at the end of the third quarter would have earned 14.43 per cent in the period, according to the Salomon world government index. So far this year, so-called high-yielding currency markets, such as the Australian and Canadian bond markets, have been the only stellar performers.

the highest returns; about 13.08 per cent, according to Salomon. But they aren't likely to dazzle anyone this quarter, several money managers say. They expect a huge wave of new issues soon that could create a glut, at least temporarily.

Ozal orders cuts in spending

ANKARA, Oct 5, (Reuter): Prime Minister Turgut Ozal today ordered cuts in govern-ment spending to help curb Turkey's soaring inflation.

The inflation rate reached an eight-year high of 81.8 per cent on an annual basis in September. A circular published in the official gazette banned the purchase of new vehicles and redecoration of offices. It also sought cuts in entertainment, food, clothing and medical costs.

Ozal issued a similar order in April which bankers, seeking firm monetary and fiscal policies to curb a ballooning budget deficit and rising inflation, said later had little effects. Problem

"Inflation cannot be cut down with a knife: Solving this problem gradually will give much more efficient results" Ozal told a meeting of his Motherland Party yesterday.

Inflation, a major factor behind Ozal's decisive defeat in a constitutional referendum last month, is at its highest level since the 1980 Army coup crushed extremist political violence.

Ozal said Turkey's high growth rate and the depreciation of its currency were main reasons making it difficult to control inflation, which has nearly doubled in the past 12 months.

Wall Street Market Report

New York, Oct 5, (Reuter) — Wall Street stocks were narrowly lower and quiet overall but a flurry of activity in special situation issues and groups rolled the market, brokers said. A senior trader added that losses in high-tech issues were a depressant, but a rise in bond prices supported the market.

The Dow was off nine at 2093 but gainers led declining issues narrowly. Goodyear tyre, one of the Dow 30, was off four at 53-1/4. The company sharply lowered its third-quarter earnings estimates and Mabon Nugent cut its rating on the company, Mabon said.

TOKYO STOCKS CLOSE LOWER FOR FOURTH DAY TOKYO, OCT 5, REUTER - SHARE PRICES FINISHED THE SESSION DOLM FOR THE FOURTH DAY AS CONCERN OVER THE HEALTH OF THE EMPEROR CONTINUED TO HANG OVER THE MARKET, BROKERS SAID.
"THE MARKET OVERALL IS TAKING A WAIT-AND-SEE ATTITUDE. ANY NEGATIVE NEWS GIVES INVESTORS AN EXCUSE TO GET OUT. NO ONE WANTS TO HAVE A BIG POSITION FOR THE THREE-DAY WEEKEND HERE," SAID A TRADER AT YAMAICHI SECURITIES. MONDAY IS A MATIONAL HOLIDAY IN JAPAN.

THE NIKKEI INDEX LOST 95.53 POINTS, OR 0.35 PCT, TO 27,405.49, AFTER RISING FROM A LOW OF 27,246.34 AT THE START OF THE AFTERNOON SESSION. 1T DROPPED 44.51 POINTS ON TUESDAY. THE FIRST SECTION, OR THE TOKYO STOCK PRICE INDEX, TOPIX, FELL 13.02 POINTS TO 2,116.76 AFTER A FOUR-POINT-RISE ON

FALLS TOOK A STRONG TWO-TO-ONE LEAD OVER RISES IN MODERATE TURNOVER OF ONE BILLION SHARES AGAINST 950 MLN. DECLINING SECTORS WERE LED BY ELECTRICAL, PHARMACEUTICAL, COMMUNICATIONS, SHIPBUILDING, CREDIT/LEASE, OIL, PRECISION

INSTRUMENT AND AUTO SHARES. THE CHLY ADVANCING SHARES WERE GAS, RAILWAY/BUS, BANK, SECURITIES HOUSE, NON-FERROUS METAL, FISHERY AND SOME MANUFACTURING ISSUES.

THERE IS SPECULATION THE MARKET WILL CLOSE IF THE EMPEROR DIES, ALTHOUGH THERE HAS BEEN NO OFFICAL ANNOUNCEMENT, AND INVESTORS ARE THEREFORE TRYING TO KEEP THEIR BOOKS FLAT,

THE MARKET WILL LIKELY TAKE A TEMPORARY DOMINIARD TURN AND REMAIN QUIET FOR A WHILE, THEY ADDED. EMPEROR HIROHITO, BELIEVED TO STILL BE SUFFERING FROM INTERNAL BLEEDING, WAS RESTING QUIETLY IN HIS HOSPITAL BED TODAY. PALACE OFFICIALS SAID HE HAD RECEIVED NO FURTHER BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS TODAY, BUT MADE NO COMMENT ON WHETHER HE HAD CONTINUED BLEEDING INTERNALLY.

Hong Kong Market Report

HONG KONG, OCT 5, REUTER - SHARE PRICES CLOSED VIRTUALLY UNCHANGED WITH MOST INVESTORS STAYING ON THE SIDELINE FOLLOWING WEAK PERFORMANCES IN BOTH TOKYO AND NEW_YORK,

THE HANG SENG INDEX ADDED A NERE 1.66 TO 2,417.42, WHILE THE BROADER-BASED! HONG KONG INDEX WAS UP 0.81 TO 1,589.82. TURNOVER WAS A SLUGGISH 337.50 MLH H.K. DLRS COMPARED WITH TUESDAY'S 349.71 MLM.

"ALL SIGNS POINTED TO AN ONGOING SLUGGISHNESS IN MAJOR GLOBAL CENTRES," A LOCAL BROKER SAID. "WHEN WILL IT END? MAYBE AFTER MOVEMBER, WE JUST HAVEN'T GOT ANY CLUES."

The dinar again slipped against the dollar in line with a six-month-old trend. The Central Bank dinar exchange rate declined to 0.28888/98 to the dollar from Tuesday's 0.28872/ 82, while commercial banks quoted spot rates of around 0.28895/00.

The Central Bank allotted a 70 million dinar ($242 million) issue of three-month treasury bills at an average discount yield of 6.542 per cent, but dealers said there was little impact on rates because it merely rolled over an existing issue for the same amount that matured today.

Overnight dealt at 12 per cent from Tuesday's 10 per cent. Tomorrow-next traded at nine and 9-1/2 per cent from seven per. cent bids, while one-week trades' climbed to 9-1/2 per cent.
One and two-month money was about 1/8 firmer at 7-1/2, 1/4 per cent for the one-month, which traded at 7-1/4 per cent, and 7-1/4, 6-3/4 per cent for the two-month

Other periods were quiet and little changed with the threemonth at seven, 6-3/4 per cent and six-month at seven, 6-5/8 per cent.

Meanwhile, Saudi riyal interbank deposits firmed 1/8 point today in moderate trade as declining oil prices prompted strong speculation of a rival devaluation by end-1988.

Dealers reported business in one to six-month deposits as traders borrowed long-term maturities to swap into dollars in anticipation of the move, which would increase the value of the kingdom's dollar-denominated oil revenues.

"People are sure there will be a devaluation. Thequestion is when," one dealer said. Bankers say rapidly dwindling oil prices could help widen the kingdom's projected 1988 budget deficit of 35.6 billion riyals ($9.5 billion). Pressure

Tightness at the short end of the market also exerted upward pressure. Spot-next rose to 8-1/4, eight per cent from initial quotes of seven, 6-7/8 per cent, with business reported at those levels.

One-month firmed 1/8 point to 8-11/16, 9/16 per cent while three-months rose to 8-7/8, 13/16 per cent from 8-3/4, 5/8 on Tuesday. Six-months and one-year both firmed 1/16 point to nine. 8-7/8 per cent and 9-1/8, nine per cent respectively.

UK watchdog body orders probe into petrol pricing

LONDON, Oct 5, (Reuter): Britain's watchdog Office of Fair Trading (OFT) said today it was ordering an investigation into allegations of petrol price-fixing by major oil companies.

OFT director-general Sir Gor-don Borrie said he was seeking the probe following a critical parliamentary report in July, which accused big oil firms of colluding to keep prices high at British filling stations despite falling world oil prices.

An OFT spokeswoman declined to say whether any specific companies would be targetted under the investigation by the Monopolies and Mergers Commission (MMC).

Retreat in oil prices slows

Dollar generally higher and gold sinks

The US dollar rose against most currencies in lacklustre European trading today. Gold prices were lower.

Foreign exchange dealers said that in the absence of any fresh economic news, technical factors continued to drive the market.

By 1503 GMT the FTSE 100 was up 15.3 points to 1,822.6, after a high on the day of 1,827.9, just before the Wall Street opening. Dealers reported higher volume than of late.

Sentiment

Dealers said some of the market's brighter sentiment arose from hopes that the next set of UK balance of payments figures will show that recent rises in base landing rates have had the desired effect of dampening down consumer demand.

Grand Metropolitan, however, lagged back from the general market's advance as investors remained mindful that the company is planning a $479 million rights issue to help fund it $5.2 billion bid for Pillsbury of

Part of yesterday's decline was pinned to disappointment that

Grand Met's bid cash is going abroad rather than being spent on previously rumoured targets Cadbury and Ranks Hovis.

Cadbury-Schweppes shares were up 1p to 377 but had touched a high today of 383 on talk of a merger with Scottish and Newcastle, up 2p to 125. Analysts, however, were sceptical of the talk and suggested fresh bid speculation was purely stimulated by the Grand Met bid for Pillsbury. Ranks Hovis McDougall shares were 4p higher at 381. Even though Grand Met is no longer seen as a potential bidder for RHM much speculation surrounds Goodman Fielder Wattie's near 30 per cent stake in the food manufacturer, dealers

Reckitt and Colman stood out with a 25p rise to 918 but dealers said this again reflected demand in a thin market.

Active

Racal was active and up 12p to 305 on turnover of 10 million on renewed interest in the shares ahead of the mid-October sale of part of its Racal Telecommunications Group.

BP shares were up 2p to 239, showing a muted response, along with most of the oil majors, to the continuing declines in crude oil prices. Shell was down a modest

Although there is some con-cern over Kuwait's likely action following Britain's demand that it more than halve its BP stake, most traders do not expect Kuwait will radically reduce its level of UK investment. There has been talk that Kuwait would express its dissatisfaction by disinvestment from the UK.

Surprise

Some dealers expressed surprise that the slump in crude oil prices has had only a minimal impact on share prices. A steep fall could markedly cut Britain's exports and well the balance of payments deficit.

Alarm at Britain's huge current account deficit was partly the cause of recent stock market declines, dealers noted. Sears was second in the actives list with a turnover of 11.4 million shares. The shares rose 4p to 134 as talk persists that another party is building a stake in the firm. Sears yesterday said half year pre-tax profit rose to £102 million from £93 million. Strong

The building materials sector was strong with cement maker Blue Circle up 5p to 457 and English China Clays 1 ip ahead at 509. Dealers reported that a major broker had recommended the sector and said that part of the rise in English China Clays could be attributed to renewed bid speculation.

MMC decision a strong blow to the concept of free trade

UK keen to retain economic interest in Kuwait

Amidst growing embarrassment. the British government is seeking to contain the political and diplomatic repercussions of the British Trade Ministry's decision yesterday to lower the Kuwait Investment Office's share in British Petroleum.

The decision was widely covered by the British mass media and highlighted in all dailies with detailed commentaries on its importance and its serious effect on the British-Kuwaiti relations.

British newspapers described the decision as the most severe and obstinate measure ever taken by the Conservative London government against foreign investment in the United King-

One commentary called the decision a "strong blow" to the concept of free trade. It also stressed the importance of nongovernment intervention in international commercial operations, particularly since the UK is one of the biggest investment countries in the world. Top British executives and managers have experienced a salary boom over the last year, though there are indications the pace of pay rises are slowing, according to two surveys released here today. Basic pay for UK executives rose by an average 10 per cent in the last year, over twice the rate of inflation, a survey of 7,138 businessmen by the British firm

P-E Inducon revealed. In companies with turnovers of £20 to 50 million, managing directors received a 10 per cent basic salary increase to just over £48,000. In companies with 10 times the turnover, managing directors saw salary hikes of 12.1 per cent to £78,000, said the

However, a related survey by the Merchant Bank Charterhouse showed that pay rises to senior executives in the six months to last July were down around one per cent from the previous half-year.
According to Charterhouse, average salary increases to managing directors ran at 11.1 per

Both surveys noted that five senior UK executives earned more than £1 million a year, and P-E inbucon pointed out that 18 other managers received salaries over £400,000 per annum. Meanwhile, a separate report came second in a league table of giant Euro-businesses. The list of Europe's biggest 100 firms showed Britain with 24 placings, second only to West Germany with 31, and ahead of France which had 21. The top firm was the Angio-Dutch energy giant, Royal Dutch Shell, followed by BP, Germany's Daimler-Benz, the Italian energy group ENI and the German car group Volkswagen.

Dear Junior Readers,

At long last, the temperature is dropping, the sun is not so strong and the evening air is quite cool. The long, hot summer is coming to an end and we can all look forward to a pleasant winter.

I never thought I would actually be happy to see the winter with the cold (lovely!), the rain (wonderful!!), and the snow (fantastic!!!), but this summer was my first in Kuwait and my o'h my, it half killed

So, get shaking the dust out of your woolly jumpers and the spiders out of your boots and get ready to make the best of the short but beautiful winter!

'It's a kind of spell,' Matilda said, shaking the damp out of her handkerchief on to a fine polyanthus.

But my dear girl,' Mr Willoughby exclaimed testily, you have a National Magic Insurance card, haven't you? Good heavens - why don't you go to the Public Magician?

'I never thought of that,' she confessed. 'I'll go at lunchtime.'

Fortunately for Matilda the Public Magician's office lay just across the square from where she worked, so that she did not cause too much disturbance, though the Borough Council could never account for the rare and exotic flowers which suddenly sprang up in the middle of their dusty lawns.

The Public Magician received her briskly, examined her with an occultiscope, and asked her to state particulars of her trouble.

'It's a spell,' said Matilda, looking down at a pink Christmas rose growing unseasonably beside her chair.

'In that case we can soon help you. Fill in that form. if you please,'. He pushed a All you've ever wanted printed slip at her across the table. It said: "To be filled in by persons suffering from spells, incantations, philtres, Evil Eye, etc.' Matilda filled name and address of patient, nature of spell, and date, but when she came to name and address of person by whom spell was cast, she paused. 'I don't know her address,' she said. 'Then I'm afraid you'll have to find it. Can't do anything without an the Public address, Magician replied.

Matilda went out into the street very disheartened, The Public Magician could do nothing better than advise her to put an advertisement into The Times and the International Sorcerers' Bulletin, which she accordingly did:

GERTRUDE AUNT COMMUN-MATILDA PLEASE ICATE MUCH DISTRESSED BY LAST POEM.

While she was in the Post Office sending off her advertisements (and causing a good deal of confusion by the number of forget-me-nots she left about), she wrote and posted her resignation to Mr

Willoughby, and then went sadly to the nearest Underground Station.

'Aintcher left something behind? a man said to her at the top of the escalator. She looked back at the trail of daffodils across the station entrance and hurried anxiously down the stairs. As she ran round a corner at the bottom angry shouts told her that blooming lilies had interfered with the works and the escalator had stopped. She tried to hide in the gloom at the far end of the platform, but a furious station official found her.

'Wotcher mean by it?' he said, shaking her elbow. 'It'll take three days to put the station right, and look at my platform! The stone slabs were split and pushed aside by vast peonies, which kept growing, and threatened to block the line. 'It isn't my fault — really it isn't,' poor Matilda stammered.

'The company can sue you for this, you know,' he began, when a train came in. Pushing past him, she squeezed into the nearest door.

She began to thank her stars for the escape, but it was too soon. A powerful and penetrating smell of onions rose round her feet where the white flowers of wild garlic had sprung. When Aunt Gertie finally read the advertisement in a ten-months' old copy of the International Sorcerer's Bulletin, she packed her luggage and took the next aeroplane back to England. For she was still just as Aunt Cissie had described her thoughtless, but very good-hearted.

'Where is the poor child?' she asked Aunt

Aggie.
I should say she was poor,' her sister replied tartly. 'It's a pity you didn't come home before, instead of making her life a misery for twelve years. You'll find ber out in the summer-

Matilda had been living out there ever since she left the Ministry of Alarm and Despondency, because her aunts kindly but firmly, and quite reasonably, said that they could not have the house filled with vegetation.

She had an axe, with which she cut down the worst growths every evening, and for the rest of the time she kept as still as she could, and earned some money by doing odd jobs of typing and sewing.

'My poor dear child.' Aunt Gertie said breathlessly. 'I had no idea that my little verses would have this effect. What ever shall we do?

'Please do something.' Matilda implored her, sniffing. This time it was not tears, but a cold she had caught from living in perpetual draughts.

'My dear, there isn't anything I can do. It's bound to last till the end of the year — that sort of spell is completely unalterable."

'Well, at least can you stop sending me the verses?' asked Matilda. 'I don't want to sound ungrateful ...

'Even that I can't do,' her aunt said gloomily. 'It's a banker's order at the Magician's Bank. Once a year from seven to twentyone. Oh, dear, I thought it would be such fun for you. At least you only have one more, though.

Yes, but heaven knows what that'll be.' Matilda sneezed despondently and put another sheet of paper into her typewriter. There seemed to be nothing to do but wait. However, they did decide that it might be a good thing to go and see the Public Magician on the morning of Matilda's twenty-first birthday.

Aunt Gertie paid the taxi-driver and tipped him heavily not to grumble about the mass of delphiniums sprouting out of the mat of his cab.

'Good heavens, if it isn't Gertude Jones!' the Public Magician exclaimed. 'Haven't seen you since we were at college together. How are you? Same old irresponsible Gertie? Remember that hospital you endowed with endless beds and the trouble it caused? And the row with the cigarette manufacturers over the extra million boxes of cigarettes for the soldiers? When the situation was explained to him he laughed heartily.

Just like you, Gertie. Well-meaning isn't the word.

At eleven promptly, Matilda opened her pink envelope.

Matilda, now you're twenty-one May you have every sort of fun; May you have all you've ever wanted,

And every future wish be granted.

Every future wish be granted — then I wish Auntie Gertie would lose her power of wishing.' cried Matilda; and immediately Aunt Gertie

WORLD CHAMPION EVALUATED BY ANOTHER PSYCHIATRIST

golf season

IA DILAM DAMMAHOM Shaheen opened the 1989 golf season at the Hunting and Equestrian club on Friday. Al Shaheen, a strong supporter of golf in Kuwait, drove the irst ball to start the October medal competition, which has been dedicated in memory of the late Captain V.J. Pearce, a long time member and founder of the Hunting and Equestrian golf club, who passed away last month playing golf in the South of France.

Sixty golfers turned out to contest the new course layout with a new par of 71. While weather conditions were almost ideal, few players were able to tame the new course and score below par. The winners were:

Gross ln A-division, Stephen Watters (10) with net 66, won on a count back from Adnan Assaf (7) also with 66. Adnan also was credited with 73, the best gross of the day, which is a new course record. Crowning his excellent performance on this day, Adnan won the longest drive for men by a long margin with a 300-yard drive on the long 16th.

In B-division the winner

Al Shaheen: about to drive was H.S. Lee (23) with net 68 from S.D. So and Ken Cook. In C-division the winner was Y.H. Kim (26) with net 68 from Yahia Bakir.

In side competition the longest drive for ladies was won by newcomer Jill Raper and A.B. Jolly was winner of nearest to the pin contest on the short 13th.

At the conclusion of the competition Al Shaheen presented prizes to the winners and announced that the Hunting and Equestrian club will sponsor this medal competition every year as the "Captain Pearce Medal".

Undisputed heavyweight champion Mike Tyson is not, and has never been, a manic-depressive, a psychiatrist said after examining the lighter yesterday.

Dr Abraham Halpern, the chairman of the psychiatry department of United Hospital at Port Chester, New York, said Tyson "showed no sign of abnormality. He had no delusionary

Tyson has been besieged by personal problems since knocking out Michael Spinks in his last title defense in June.

After an auto accident last month at Catskill, New York, Tyson was evaluated by psychiatrist Dr Henry McCurtis at the urging of the fighter's actress wife, Robin Givens, and mother-in-law, Ruth Roper.

McCurtis reportedly diagnosed Tyson as a manie-depre sive and reportedly prescribed lithium carbonate. Halpern said yesterday that he had spoken to McCurtis, who denied making that diagnosis.

"Dr McCurtis used the expression 'mood regulatory problems.' There's something in that," Halpern said, describing the fighter's frame of mind as "most of the time within the range of normal. He's under more pressure than most of us." Halpern examined Tyson about midday yesterday.

Halpern said the best thing for Tyson would be to get back into the ring.

Halpern's examination came at the urging of Bill Cayton, Tyson's estranged manager. Tyson and Cayton met at the manager's Manhattan office on Monday, and Tyson then accompanied former welterweight champion Mark Breland to Breland's Long Island training Tyson and Cayton feuded over Cayton's percentage of the prize money from the Spinks fight and Tyson went to court in an effort to break their contract.

"When he got here he came bounding up the stairs and gave me a really big hug," Cayton said. "It was like old times. Mike is going to be OK." Tyson is hoping to start training in preparation for a scheduled December fight against Frank Bruno in London's Wembley stadium. The bout has already been postponed

"Mike said he's looking forward to getting back into training," Cayton said. "He wants to get on with the Bruno fight."

Tyson, 22, seemed to have everything going for him after his first-round knockout of Spinks, but had had little to cheer about

The latest incident was a heated argument Sunday morning with Givens in the couple's mansion at Bernardsville, New

Tyson reportedly hurled a sugar bowl and chairs through windows during a fit of anger apparently sparked by interviews given to Barbara Walters by Givens and Roper on US television network ABC's "20-20" programme

حلدًا مسرالأصل

Police said they handled the incident involving Tyson and Givens as they would any other case involving domestic violence and, as far as they are concerned, the matter is closed.

This is a domestic violence incident not unlike many others, except for the fact that it involves a public figure," Bernardsville police chief Thomas J. Sciaretta said during a news conference Monday.

Sciarctta, revealing few details, said no one was injured or arrested and that Givens did not wait to sign a domestic violence complaint.

"As far as we're concerned, it's over," he said. "Once the victim decides not to sign a complaint, then that relieves us of the responsibility."

Toson "has done nothing
"Sciaretta wrong. It's his home," Sciaretta said. "He's entitled to do anything he pleases provided no one

Tyson, who married Givens eight months ago, told the New York Daily News, "I'm hurt because I'm in love," but added that he is in no hurry to see Givens, currently filming in

WENTWORTH, England, Oct 5, (Reuter): US Masters cham-pion Sandy Lyle of Britain ensured yesterday that the 25th World Matchplay Golf Charas pionship will get off to a controversial start by roundly criticising the organisers for their seedings. After officials announced that US PGA champion Jeff Sluman lost out to Briton Nick Faldo for the number four seeded position in the prestigious 12-man event which begins tomorrow. Lyle quickly took up Sluman's cause. "It is degrading for the PGA champion of the USA not to be seeded this week," Lyle said. "I am surprised they have done it and given it to Nick Faldo. Sluman deserved to be seeded for what he has done.'

Slighted

To be seeded among the top four means a first round bye into the quarterfinals, and Sluman was not overly pleased to be

"I also thought the major championship winners would be seeded," he said. "It means now that to win the tournament I have got to play 144 holes instead of 108 like the top seeds.

'It's a nice thing for Sandy to do, but there's no point in getting hot under the collar about it." The 31-year-old American, in support of Sluman who produced a dazzling final round of 65 to capture his firs major title at the Oak Tree course in Edmond, Oklahoma, in August, is seeded fifth, but that does not spare him an opening 36-hole encounter tomorrow against unheralded Japanese Nobuo Serizawa. If he wins, he will tangle with defending champion lan Woosnam of Britain, the top seed and winner of three events in Europe in the last four months.

Officials defended their selection by saying that Faldo, the 1987 British Open champion. was much higher in the world rankings than Sluman. Faldo is ranked fourth, Sluman 36th.

They will also not be pleased at Lyle's outburst. He was, in effect, criticizing the international management group, who organize the tournament and who also run Lyle's affairs.

There was, in addition, an ironic tinge to Lyle's comments. He declined to play in the USA PGA event this year and incurred a lot of criticism for not even attempting to add that second major title to his US Masters Llyle, meanwhile, has more to prove than anyone else this week as he attempts to capture the title for the first time after finishing as runner-up four times, including the last two years.

LOS ANGELES, Oct 5, (Reuter): The New York Mets scored three runs in the ninth inning to break I os Angeles Dodgers pitcher Orel Hershiser's scoreless innings streak and dramatically win the first game of the best-ofseven National League champions series, 3-2.

Gary Carter's two-out, twostrike ninth-inning bloop double to centrefield brought in the tying and winning runs after Darryl Strawberry had doubled against Hershiser since August 30.

Hershiser added eight and one-third scoreless innings to the record 59 shutout frames with which he ended the regular season before Strawberry drove in New York's phenomenal lateseason newcomer Greece Jefferies, who went three for four against Hershiser, for the Mets' first run.

Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda marched to the mound and removed Hershiser, who wanted to stay in. Dodgers reliever Jay Howell then walked Kevin McReynolds.

Howell struck out Howard Johnson and immediately got two strikes on Carter. But the Mets' catcher then looped a fly ball to short centrefield. John Shelby dove for it, got his glove on it, but he could not hold on and it rolled away.

Strawberry, running with two out, scored easily with the tying run. McReynolds came around third and barrelled into Los Angeles catcher Mike Scioscia before the ball got there, and scored the winning run.

It was the Mets' 20th comefrom-behind victory in their last at-bat this season.

The series was to resume in Los Angeles today before shifting to New York for games three, four and, if necessary, five. The Mets' David Cone, 20-3, was to oppose Tim Belcher, 12-6, this evening.

Los Angeles took a 1-0 lead in the first inning against right han-der Dwight 'Doc' Gooden, who gave up just four hits and struck out ten in seven innings.

Kirk Gibson bounced out to second base, sending Sax to third. Mike Marshall then looped a soft liner into right field in front of Strawberry. It fell for a single, scoring Sax.

The Dodgers made it 2-0—a lead that looked almost insurmountable with Hershiser on the mound - in the seventh when Scioscia led off with a double, advanced to third on an infield out and scored on Alfredo Griffin's single.

Randy Myers pitched two hit-less innings for New York and got the win. Howell was the loser.

Carter said Jefferies, who sparked the Mets to a strong fini-shing kick in the regular season, inspired them in the ninth inning of his first Major League postseason game.

"Jefferies's hit to open the inning gave us a lift in the dugout and we thought we could do it." Describing his own game-win-ning hit, Carter said, "Shelby

"I wasn't surprised Tommy took him."

Metsmanager Davey Johnson said: "They needed to win the first game. A loss is a loss but with Hershiser on the mound and a two-run lead, it means an awful lot to them. It would have given them momentum."

JOUNIEH, Lebanon: Middle East champion Mohammed Bin Sulayem, of Dubai, has been named the top seed in the Mariboro Rally de Montagne scheduled to start tomorrow afternoon.

Bin Sulayem, who will be driving a Ford Sierra Cosworth, will be first off the ramp and will be followed by his rival Qatari Saeed Al Hajri who will also be using a similar car.

Situation

A total of 78 drivers have entered this 1000-kilometre rally despite the war-like situation in Lebanon. "Mohammed is in top mental and physical condition," said Bob Freeborough, manager of the Marlboro Middle East team. "He wants to win and we are totally behind him." With the practice completed, Michel Saleh, who had been seeded third will not contest this three-day classic. He told the organisers yesterday that the engine for his Opel Manta 400 had been delayed in UK. Saleh was runner-up to Bin Sulayem in last year's rally.

"It is a pity Michel will not take part, he is always very competitive" said 27-year-old Bin Sulayem. Top 5 seeds:
